Allied Forces Are Only Eight Miles Away From the Fortress of Mauberge—Great Drive on

Germans Retreat So Fast That They Are out of Touch with Pursuing Troops in Place—French Have Advanced and Americans Near Dun, on the Meuse River

LONDON, Nov. 5.—The Germans are retreating on a seventy-five mile front from the River Scheldt to the River Aisne.

In the face of the German retreat the situation changes so rapidly hour by hour that it is impossible to give a definite idea of the Allied advance.

Allied troops have crossed the Franco-Belgian frontier between Valenciennes and Bavy, which is eight miles west of the fortress of Mauberge. The Allies are within two miles of Bavy. They have captured the whole of Mormal forest except the eastern edge.

Then the line runs from Marolles to the western edge of Novion forest, two miles east of Guise, two miles south of Marle and along the Sero river to Clermont river, and then in a straight line to Chateau-Porcien. Owing to the poor weather the Allied pursuit has lost touch with the enemy's main body.

French troops have advanced the Ardennes canal on both sides of Le Chesne and have advanced for a distance of about one mile. The Americans have forced the bridgehead south of Dun, on the River Meuse, but have not yet occupied Dun.

Americans Cross the Meuse

WITH AMERICAN FORCES ON THE SEDAN FRONT, Nov. 5.—The American army has thrown a formidable force across the Meuse to the east bank. The enemy resistance here has broken to the point of demoralization and the Allies are pushing northward toward Stenay. By this afternoon the enemy was in full retreat northward. It was offering little opposition and the roads toward the north were seen to be full of the fleeing enemy.

Allies Demand Punishment For Brutal German Officers

LONDON, Nov. 5.—Sir George Gave, home secretary, announced that the names of all enemy army corps commanders or other persons who are known to have been guilty of or have encouraged cruelty to war prisoners or have executed or have ordered by subordinates to be included in the list of persons whose trial and punishment would be demanded by the Allies. It was considered inadvisable at present to state the names of the persons in the list. The French government had been reluctant to cause possible steps to be taken to bring to account the commander of the camp at Philipopolis, who was distinguished for his ill-treatment of British prisoners.

Drifted Twenty-One Days In an Open Ship's Boat

German Submarine Captured Norwegian Ship and Turned Crew Adrift in Mid-Ocean—Crew Landed at Turks Island, B.W.I., Monday Night

TURKISH ISLAND, B.W.I., Nov. 4.—(Via Halifax)—Reporting the capture of their ship in latitude 37.30, longitude 24.30, by a German submarine on October 18th, the captain and seven men of the Norwegian ship "Laguna" have arrived in the harbor of this island. The ship was captured in the North Atlantic, and the crew drifted for twenty-one days in an open ship's boat.

A second boat containing the remaining 11 members of the crew had been separated from the captain's boat and was finally able to reach the island on Monday night.

and nothing is known of its fate. The captain states that when he and his crew were abandoned to their fate by the Germans they first tried to reach Halifax, but their boat capsized. They then drifted for several days before being rescued by the British ship "Hermione" which was in the area. The crew was then taken to the island and the ship was abandoned.

Ghent Appears to Have Been Evacuated by the Enemy

WITH ALLIED FORCES IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM, Nov. 5.—(Associated Press)—Allied lines Tuesday morning were about on a par with the German line, toward which the Allied troops continued to press. Belgian, French and American soldiers this afternoon had pushed up to the eastern outskirts of the beleaguered city with comparatively light resistance from the enemy, who apparently has evacuated the place. The city is already surrounded virtually on three sides.

The assault on the city was witnessed by Queen Elizabeth of Belgium and hundreds of her non-combatant subjects.

Foch Empowered by the Allies to Hand Terms of Armistice to the German Government

Terms Will Include Full Compensation to Invaded Territories for All Damage to Civilian Population by Land, by Sea and from Air—Allies Will Decide What "Freedom of the Seas" Is

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5.—Marshal Foch has been authorized by the United States and the Allies to receive representatives of the German government and to communicate to them the terms of an armistice. The German government is so informed in a note handed to the Swiss minister here today by Secretary Lansing.

The note announces that the Allied governments have declared their willingness to make peace with the German government on the basis of the President Wilson's address to congress last July, and on the principles of settlement enunciated in his subsequent addresses. The Allies reserve to themselves, however, complete freedom of action when they enter the peace conference on the subject of freedom of the seas.

It was further stated with reference to restored invaded territories that the Allied governments understand that compensation will be made by Germany for all damage to the civilian population of the Allies and their property as the result of the aggression of Germany by land, by sea and from the air.

Allied Armies Are Thrusting Deep Into the Battle Flanks of the Enemy Positions

Paris, Nov. 5.—A battle which it is believed will be decisive is now going on. It is being waged in two sections. In the north the blow delivered by the British armies of General Allenby, Byng and Rawlinson, and by the French armies of General Foch, is being leveled at one of the flanks of the vast pocket formed by the German lines from Holland to Metz.

The object of this offensive is to drive dangerous wedges either north of the Sambre in the direction of Namur, south of the river in the direction of Avesnes and Mauberge. The result may be a compromise retreat of the German armies in Belgium, or of those still between the Oise and the Aisne. Excellent results have been realized so far. The Sambre river and canal have been joined with the Aisne, leveling at one of the flanks of the vast pocket formed by the German lines from Holland to Metz.

The second section of the attack is being conducted by Generals Gouraud and Liggett on the Meuse. This is the great strategic offensive which the Germans have always feared and which they sought to make impossible by storming Verdun in 1916.

The aim of the Franco-American offensive is to pinch out the whole pocket. American troops are at Beaumont. That is less than eight miles from La Mouilly station, northwest of Mont Medy on the great shuttle railroad running between Thionville, Sedan and Metz. Even better, the opening of a fresh attack by the Americans on the east bank of the Meuse may bring them into the Mont Medy-Langon region. That may mean not only the cutting of the railroad but making it impossible for the enemy to form upon the Meuse line this formidable reserve of troops which they have been building up since the beginning of the war.

GERMANS RETREAT IN SEDAN SECTOR

With the American Army on the Sedan Front, Nov. 5.—The importance of the new positions gained by the Americans, notably the heights south of Beaumont, may be judged by the declaration by the chief of staff hardly an hour before the news came that the Germans had begun to retreat from their positions.

Sunday noon the correspondent had asked as to whether the American long range bombardment of the Meuse and Longny region had been effective. The officer gave as his opinion that a further advance of nine or ten miles was necessary before the bombardment could become vitally effective. Nor did he anticipate that it would be possible seriously to disturb the German communications for days to come, referring to the infinitely difficult terrain lying to the north, with its succession of ridges, ravines, hills and forests. The enemy, although driven behind his previously fortified defenses, had abandoned almost all his previous positions. The Germans were now in a position to be able to hold out for a long time. COUNT TISZA SHOT BY SOLDIERS IN HIS OWN HOME

Former Premier of Hungary is Blamed by Assassins for Having Caused War

AMSTERDAM, Nov. 2.—The Berlin Vossische Zeitung contains a dramatic account of the assassination of Count Tisza, former premier of Hungary, at his home in Budapest, on the morning of the 21st. The account states that three soldiers invaded Tisza's residence and presented themselves in the drawing room. Count Tisza, with his wife and the Countess, were seated at the table. The soldiers, dressed in uniform, demanded to see the Count. Tisza, who was alone, rose to meet them. The soldiers, who were armed, then fired at him. Tisza was hit in the chest and fell. The soldiers then fled. Tisza was taken to a hospital, but he died of his wounds. The assassination of Count Tisza is a significant event in the history of Hungary and the Balkans. Tisza was a prominent figure in Hungarian politics and was known for his role in the First World War. His assassination is seen as a turning point in the history of the region.

When You Fight—Fight

Fight as the Canadian soldiers fought at Ypres, Vimy, Courcellette and Passchendaele. "They covered themselves with glory," the papers say. Of course they did—they are Canadians.

They met the finest of the enemy troops in a terrific hand-to-hand struggle. They used their guns—their bayonets—their bare fists.

Every Canadian soldier went after his man desperately, fearlessly, persistently, with one great driving purpose—to whip that Prussian Guard, to silence his machine guns—to win.

It's a pretty good way to fight. It wins battles over there, it will win a splendid victory everywhere—if we fight when we fight—if we buy Victory Bonds to our utmost.

Lend the way they fight.

Buy bonds to your utmost.
